SUMMARY.

The Australian Press Association learns that the position on the Western front has not been stabilized.

It is still anxious, because the Germans have not shown their hand.

Mr. G. H. Parris telegraphed from Paris on Friday night that the front on the front had not been lessened.

The battle westward of the Oise had ended in a costly German reverse, despite the enemy's gain of ground.

The result, Mr. Parris said, demonstrated the brilliant success of the Allied generalship.

A French report on Saturday reported the active activity between Montdidier and the area south of the Aisne.

The French drove back the enemy from Coude and Valmy, which they captured.

They gained ground east of Mont Gobert, taking the principal road to the rear.

The Germans attacked the Americans on the ridge at Chateau Thierry, but failed to gain the town.

St. Douglas Haig reported that English and Scottish battalions took prisoners in a successful attack on the British front.

The British repelled an attempted raid on a post at Arvouzy.

Major General Maurice says: At the end of the fourth month of the war, the British Army had been in battle for 70 miles.

The Allies had necessitated 15 or 18 more miles than were in the line before the 1918 campaign began.

Apart from the losses of the battle, the attack, Major General Maurice says, had been a serious drain on Foch's resources.

He is of the opinion that the Chemin des Dunes attack was merely an experiment, and was followed up because it opened successfully.

The Allies had necessitated 15 or 18 more miles than were in the line before the 1918 campaign began.

The German menace, he adds, is still formidable, but it is less formidable than at the end of the war.

An American report says that the German public is disappointed at the failure to capture Reims.

Over 90,000 American troops have already been sent overseas.

An Australian offensive has begun against the Italians with a heavy attack on the Asago front.

The Italians are reported to be resisting magnificently.

The attack extends from the Astico to the sea.

A front of 10 miles is involved.

The extremely violent artillery activity started of the French and in the Middle Plate.

The King of Italy reviewed the Czechoslovak forces which is now in readiness to march.

Rumours from European sources suggest that an upheaval is threatened in Austria. Blots in Vienna are reported to be serious.

Mr. Asquith ignores the fact that we had been critical of the French and the British.

Lord Milner, at the T.M.C.A. headquarters, said Germany was at the climax of her power.

"We must therefore fight as we never fought before until America was fully involved," he added.

English naval critics forecast that the German fleet will shortly be compelled to give battle.

Mr. Hughes and Mr. Joseph Cook, the Australian representatives at the Imperial War Conference, are in India.

The British liner Aurora, 15,212 tons, has been torpedoed and sunk in the Atlantic.

The Cunard liner Acasta, 8,121 tons, is breaking up. All crew were saved.

President Wilson has replied to President Poincaré's congratulations on the entry of the United States into the war.

We hope the United States intended to dispatch men and material to France until the inequality of forces was overcome.

Archbishop Wright made a strong appeal at Bay on Saturday for a greater demonstration of national feeling.

"We have the enemy within our gates—the men who do not care for the men who do not think," the archbishop said.

A stormy debate took place in the Labour Conference on Saturday night on the question of the release of the I.W.W. prisoners.

Moray and there were a hundred and one reasons why they should not prove for a new trial.

An amendment in favour of the appointment of a Royal Commission to inquire into the Royal Commission was carried.

The Chief Commissioner on Saturday com- mended the Railway and Tramway Amalgamated Corps its record of work.

He said that $120,000 railway and tramway had gone to the front, 800 of whom were killed or wounded.

THE SUGAR CROP.

An estimate of the sugar crop of Queensland for the year 1917-18 has been considerably increased from that of last year, when a record yield was obtained. The estimated yield is also believed to be greater than that of the previous year. The crop in the early part of the year did great damage to the cane-fields in those districts. The yield for last year was estimated at 313,900 tons. With a consumption of 260,000 tons, this would leave a carry-over of 53,900 tons, and it is estimated that this year will be 313,900 tons. The yield for the year 1916-17 was 276,000 tons, and it is estimated that this year will be a further carry-over of 16,000 tons, and it is estimated that the yield for the year 1917-18 will be 313,900 tons. The yield of sugar varies within very wide limits. The lowest yield recorded was 19,000 tons, and the highest was 527,000 tons. The yield for the year 1916-17 was 172,616 tons. The yield of sugar did not improve over a series of years, as may be given thus:—
